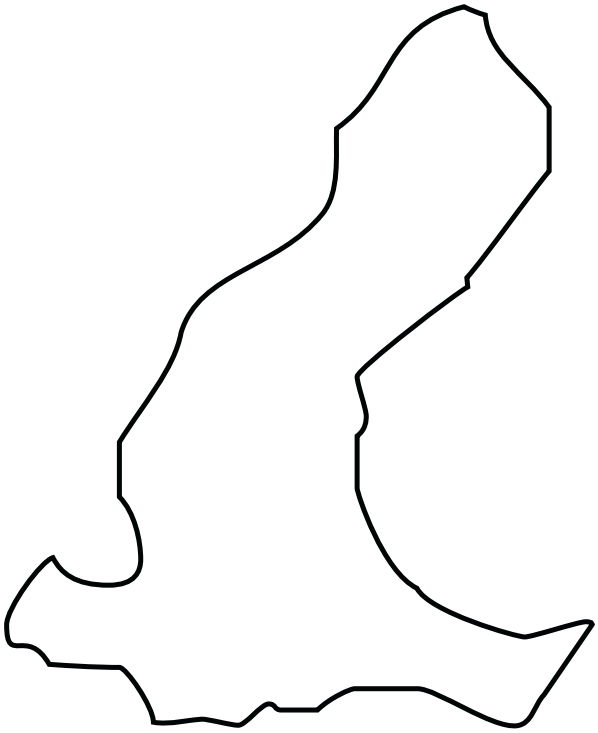
Summary



A group of armed Maoists shot dead two unarmed army persons Dilip Mukhiya and Sunil Kumar Tamang at Bishalnagar of Salyantar VDC-8, Dhading district on June 18, 2005 at quarter past eleven in the morning. The victims were shot dead while purchasing goods in the market. The incident was not only the direct violation of humanitarian law but also was an attack with civilians being used as human shields. In retaliation, the local administration and the security forces showed their wrath to terrify the citizens who were already suffering. The illustrated incident of Arughat is the burning example showing how the civilians are inhumanly sandwiched in the armed conflict in Nepal. The reaction from the district level Maoist leader in the killing of those two army persons shows that the party command has very less information about the incident.

With lack of sense of accountability in the local administration, fury of security forces and the irresponsible statement from the local Maoist leaders, most probably civilians in the surroundings of Arughat may further be crushed in future. The state has escaped from its responsibility of protecting civilians of Salyantar in the chaotic situation, raised after the killing of two army persons.
